I am please(pleased) to meet all of you today and welcome you Rashtrtpati(to) Bhawan.(Rashtrapati) I(Bhavan.) congratulate(I) the(congratulate) young(the) Officers(young) Trainees(Officers) joining(Trainees) the(joining) the Indian Information Service after succeeding in the Civil Services Examination. You have opted to join a career at a time when information has become critical in building of a society. I am sure that while working for the Government, you will get many opportunities to serve the people of our great country. We are living in an era where information is suitably democratised. It is in this context that your joining the information service is particularly relevant. Today, information is available far and wide and is no longer the preserve of the elite. Even so, there remains a large segment of our people that could benefit from greater awareness about different public programmes and welfare schemes. As Officers of Indian Information Service(Service,) after(you) succeeding(play) in(a) the(versatile) Civil(role) Services(in) Examination.(not) You(only) have(dissemination) opted(of) to(information) join(but) a(also) carrer(in) at(checking) a(its) time(veracity) and collating it for a meaningful purpose. In this era of dumbing down of information, you need to emerge as providers of positive information, that is, information which is useful and relevant for people and society. This is in addition to your role as Information Gate Keepers and Information Enablers. It is for you all to make welfare schemes understandable to the common people. Without people's participation and support, even the best of policies, programmes and public schemes may fail to deliver on their promise. Thus, your role becomes important. Through public out reach and communication, you can educate people about different

Together, I am sure you will do yourself and our nation proud. I am pleased ot(to) meet all of you today and welcome you to Rashtrapati Bhavan. I congratulate the young Officers Trainess(Trainees) joining teh(the) Indian Information Service after succeeding in the Civil Services Examination. You have opted to join a career at a time when inforamtron(information) has become critical in building of a society. I am sure that while working for the Governme(Government,) nt(you) will get many opportunitie(opportunities) to serve the people of our great country. We are living in an er(era) where ~~information is suitably democratised. It is in this context that your joining the information service is particularly relevant. Today, information is available far and wide and is no longer the preserve of the elite. Even so, there remains a large segment of our people that could benefit from greater awareness about different public programmes and welfare schemes. As Officers of Indian Information Service, you play a versatile role in not only dissemination of information but also in checking its veracity and collating it for a meaningful purpose. In this era of dumbing down of information, you need to emerge as providers of positive information, that is, information which is useful and relevant for people and society. This is in addition to your role as Information Gate Keepers and Information Enablers. It is for you all to make welfare schemes understandable to the common people. Without people's participation and support, even the best of policies, programmes and public schemes may fail to deliver on their promise.~~
